

Raíces del Maule: Terranoble´s Tribute to the Maule Valley

With a technical tasting “Raíces del Maule”, TerraNoble´s new high-end wine tribute to its 30 years in the Maule Valley, was recently presented to the Chilean specialized press.

In the words of Pedro Vega, viticulturist and Marcelo García, winemaker, “following the vision of the founders, in these 30 years in Maule, we have dedicated ourselves to exploring the valley in its entirety. Not only we search for new terroirs but also learn from its ancestral viticulture and support small producers to maintain the valley's winemaking tradition, providing new ideas, thus contributing to its long-term sustainability.”

Is in this spirit that five years ago we set ourselves the responsibility and challenge of showing the qualities of Maule through the production of a high-end wine. We envisioned this wine as the result of the selection of fruit with typicity from our estate and from the associative work with small producers that we got to know in our permanent journey through the valley, and winemaking with minimal intervention.

Of limited production, this is how “Raíces del Maule” was born, now available internationally.
